

Delaware River Sojourn 2002 – Day Five

Crossing a Revolutionary River

Gen. George Washington did it again. He crossed the Delaware River yesterday, re-enacting his historical 1776 Christmas night crossing as part of the annual eight-day Delaware River Sojourn being held through Saturday. In the photo above, rifleman Paul Donohue crosses the river with Washington. At right, Washington, portrayed by Bob Gerenser of New Hope, Pa., throws a rope ashore as he and Col. Edward Hand, portrayed by Bill Agreser of Lawrence, land in New Jersey beside the Washington Crossing Bridge.

Trenton Times,
Trenton, N.J.,
June 6, 2002
Photo in article by
Cindy DeSau.